

To whom it may concern,

I must say that RSC Consulting Services has thoroughly impressed me with the services they provided us. Our company had experienced rapid growth for several years followed by a plateau period. We had grown to over $5 million in sales and 50 employees, yet had not been able to continue the growth despite the fact that our industry overall was not in a recession. In addition, our profitability was not where we needed it to be, yet it wasn't clear what needed to be cut and where we needed to invest to break through the plateau.

The amazing thing about RSC was their ability to come in and quickly, yet comprehensively, understand our situation. I can't stress enough how critical this skill was. As most business executives, we are extremely busy. If an outside consultant needed an extensive period of time to understand the business before being able to begin to make recommendations on critical areas, it simply wouldn't have been feasible given the pace we move at. This is where RSC's years of knowledge and experience paid big dividends for us. Not only were they able quickly get up to speed but they were able to show us that our situation "wasn't as unique as we thought". It turned out there was a wealth of practical principles that could be applied to our business to make a dramatic difference.

I would highly recommend RSC to any business that wants to turn around a difficult situation or improve the growth and profitability of a stable one. I consider them a secret weapon in the competitive economy we live in. I also consider them trusted friends that I can turn to for discussion of important confidential matters that I literally can't discuss with anyone else. Their wisdom, vision and business acumen is unmatched. If they are on your team they are worth their weight in gold. If they work for the competition, look out!

Sincerely,

Paul Lewis

Paul Lewis
President & CEO
MindComet Corporation